

Libertad Para Andrés Villaverde!

On October 27th of 1991, anarchist comrade Andrés Villaverde was accused of an act of sabotage and detained. He was taken by National Police to the district's headquarters. Three days later he was interrogated by DINCOTE (the Counter Terrorist Agency). When no tangible evidence was found to back up the charge, Andrés was accused of being a militant of Sendero Luminoso (Shining Path, the Communist Party of Peru) and taken to Castro-Castro, Peru's maximum security prison. Because nine months have passed since his detention and his case has not even been opened yet, an international campaign is developing to gain his release.

Recommended Actions

Telegrams, telexes and letters:

Call for a immediate review of Andrés Villaverde's case, permitting him access to a public defender from the Ministerio Público (Public Ministry), his family and friends, and up to and including his release based on the lack of evidence against him.
